

To perform every action artfully is

Yoga

Industry: Health & Wellness

Deliverables: Facebook & Twitter Event Promotions

Technology: Facebook & Twitter Ad Manager

Country: India

Project Goal:

Patanjali – a leading consumer goods manufacturer and distributor, asked us to lend a hand in spreading awareness about Yoga on International Yoga Day. Yog Guru Ramdev wanted to conduct World's largest Yoga & Meditation Camp and perform Yoga with other yoga enthusiasts and set a whole new record by being a part of Limca Book of Records.

For this, they needed help to spread awareness among the masses in Ahmedabad, Gandhinagar, & Baroda locations, get maximum event registrations, generate buzz, and create an immensely positive reputation for the event.

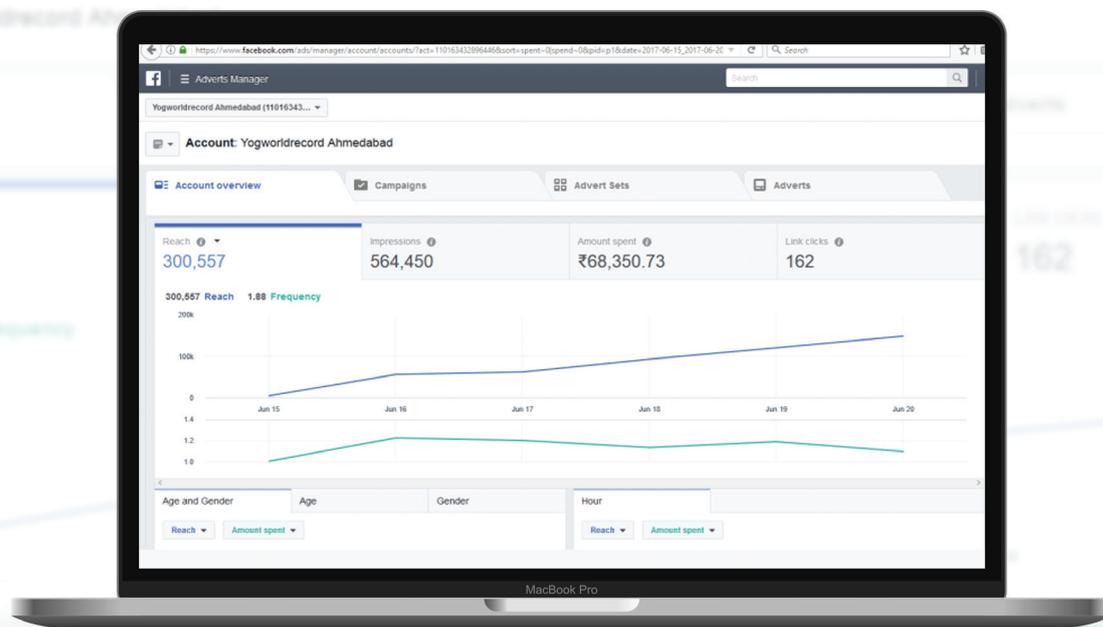

Challenges:

The client had earlier given this project to some other service provider through which they didn't receive any satisfactory results. They were facing problem in making the event popular and getting the maximum registrations to turn the event a world record. They were lacking a new approach, a new perspective to make the event a huge hit! The challenge for us was that we had only 5 days to promote the event and get a maximum number of registrations.

Service Offerings:

- Event Registration management system
- Facebook and Twitter Ad Management
- Social Media Posts

“On the occasion of International Yoga Day, Yog Guru Ramdev led the yoga celebrations along with yoga enthusiasts to perform Yoga together and set a new world record on World Yoga Day. Driving the event registrations and spreading awareness on International Yog Day using Facebook and Twitter event promotions and Ad strategy. The event was a huge success with more than 1 lakh registrations.”

Solution:

Over 1.7 billion people use Facebook and Twitter making it an ideal place to promote an event, and reach a large number of audiences quickly and easily. When it comes to social media, it's best to think visual. After all, Facebook and Twitter posts with pictures get more likes compared to their text-only brethren.

Making the most of the public's penchant for pictures Patanjali wanted us to create beautiful visual content for their followers to ogle. The opportunity to expand the brand reach through Facebook and Twitter is huge. We thoroughly kept a check on what people were talking about before, during, and after events. Earlier less than 40,000 people knew about the event, but after we took over their marketing strategy, more than 3 lac people were about the World's largest Yoga and Meditation camp.

Facebook and Twitter Ad Strategy:

- Choosing the appropriate event name
- Designing the right social media posts for the event page
- Add all the important event details
- Use the traffic or conversions objectives to get more registrations
- Use the engagement objective to get more event responses
- Boost event on the page to spread more awareness
- We often posted about early bird deadlines and registration window
- Share behind-the-scenes pictures to generate buzz and curiosity
- Interact with the audiences with questions or polls and shared various yoga tips and exercise routines.

Never underestimate the power of Free! To entice registrations, Patanjali came up with a promotion to offer a free t-shirt. This attracted a lot of registrations and in total, we received more than 2000 registrations from social only in the span of just 5 days. There were two types of registration pattern through filling the form and through giving a missed call. And due to our event marketing strategy, the client received more than 5000 missed calls as registrations.

Result:

Our strategy worked and we were able to increase the key metrics for the client as per their requirement. The awareness and reach metrics also improved considerably.

Facebook	Before Campaign	After Campaign
Facebook Reach	39,000	3,73,874
Facebook Impression	0	5,64,450
Facebook Page Like	1298	3239
Facebook Post Engagement	0	32053
Facebook Post Reach	20000	130000
Twitter	Before Campaigning	After Campaigning
Twitter Impression	0	1,18,046
Twitter Engagement	0	3566
Retweet People	0	1763
Tweet Like	0	833
Google Form	Before Campaigning	After Campaigning

Our client was extremely happy with our results, reach, and engagement metrics. They said, "The world of social media is constantly changing and KCS team have helped us with their powerful Facebook and Twitter promotion strategy to reach great heights and make the event a world record in true sense!"

We not only contributed to their brand awareness and social awareness on World Yoga Day but also helped considerably in getting registrations more than expected. The event was covered by a various news channel, received a lot of popularity, and was able to get the Limca Book of World Records Certificate.
